

J.V. Meenakshi is on the faculty of the Delhi School of Economics, University of Delhi, India, where she teaches courses in econometrics and food and agricultural policy. Her recent research has focused on the economics of malnutrition, and on agriculture-nutrition linkages. Her other research areas include the microeconomics of cereal and water markets in rural India, food demand and poverty. She serves on various technical committees of the Government of India, including the National Statistical Commission and is currently a member of the Standing Panel on Impact Assessment of the CGIAR. She obtained her Master's and PhD degrees from Cornell University in Agricultural Economics.